Rudy gets a service prize

Editor's note: Due to a production problem last week the following article was not run in its entirety, we apologize for the mistake.

Rudy - a 10-year old Schipperke/Toy Poodle mix – has received the most prestigious award in all therapy dogdom — the Distinguished Therapy Dog Award. Rudy's owner is Judy Lemke of West Sacramento.

This award, which is the highest level presented by the American Kennel Club to a non-purebred dog, goes to a dog that has performed a minimum of 400 hours of documented service as a Therapy Dog.

A Therapy Dog is a dog trained to provide affection and comfort to people in hospitals, retirement homes, nursing homes, schools, hospices, disaster areas, and to people with learning difficulties. Therapy dogs are usually not assistance or service dogs.

Judy Lemke grew up in the Sacramento area. "My mother didn't like dogs," she said. "so we didn't have dogs when I was growing up."

In 1978, when her son was four years old, Judy decided, "I wanted him to have a dog." She selected a tiny terrier-mix dog from the Sacramento city shelter. His name was Clifford.

"In the 1980s, I took Clifford to a nursing home," Judy explained. "People petted him and that's kind of when the whole thing started. At that time, there was no group to join."

"Clifford was well-behaved and I wanted to put him in a therapy program, butI didn't know much about therapy programs."

Years later, when she retired, Judy was looking for a way to give back to the community. She now had four dogs, and one of them, Rudy, was especially calm and gentle.

"He's kind of a hippie," Judy noted. "He's laid-back and loves attention, and he is obedient—that's the kind that's perfect for a therapy dog."

Judy teaches swimming and wanted a dog that was comfortable around water. So, she decided on a purebred schipperke, a Belgian breed known for its comfort around water. "Schipper" translates to "skipper" as in "boat captain". Unknown to her, the breed was developed to guard barges in seaports and not particularly water-loving.

She contacted a schipperke breeder in Ohio, and fell in love with the photo of a schipperke mix. "Rudi's mother was a schipperke and his dad was a toy poodle. He has a black coat and a white mustache and beard which he has had all his life. He looks old, but he has looked old since he was five months old. He has hair, not fur, and does not shed."

Judy asked for Rudy sight unseen, and at the age of five months, he was air freighted to Sacramento. She soon learned that Rudy, although reluctant to go into the water, but once into the water, he helps Judy demonstrate the "dog paddle" to her students.

When Rudy was four years old, Judy sent him to "doggie boot camp" where he learned behavioral fundamentals such as Sit, Stay, Don't Bark, Don't Bite, Don't Growl, and be comfortable around the neutral dog. A Therapy Dog is required to be trained in 25 behaviors. Rudy is one of 140 dogs in the Lend A Heart program.

Judy and Rudy enjoy going to the University of California Medical Center's Children's Hospital. "We knock on the door and we peek our head in and ask if they would like to visit with the dog?"

"If they do, we take our dog in. We ask the child if the dog can sit on the bed, and if they agree, we lay down a towel, and they will immediately start petting and scratching his head and his ears. Sometimes he falls asleep."

"A lot of the children have pets at home. Many of the patients are depressed because they are very sick, they miss their family, and they miss their dog. Petting a dog helps calm them to."

Lend a Heart started in 1987 when eight dog owners met at a dog park, and wondered if they could take their dogs to visit people in hospitals and nursing homes. They organized themselves and formed Lend a Heart.

Lend a Heart's latest project is to help stressed passengers at the Sacramento Airport. So far, they have had one test with three teams. They passed through security and spent an hour bringing comfort to passengers, particularly children, by chatting with them and letting them pet their Therapy Dogs.

What you can do to help the animal shelter

From The Yolo County Animal Shelter

The Yolo County Animal Shelter has instituted new low adoption prices for all of their animals in an effort to save as many lives as possible. With fees now ranging between $5 and $50 per pet, the County is lowering the actual cost of preparing pets for their new home, which actually costs the county $110 to $150 per cat and dog, respectively.

Saving homeless animals lives is not just about low prices, though, and other services include rehabilitation for animals in need, foster care for underage and frightened dogs and cats, and numerous other volunteer programs.

Beginning last month the following adoption prices have been put in place:

Cats/kittens: $50 – this cost includes spay or neuter, vaccines, except rabies due to age requirements, and FELV/FIV.

Dogs/puppies: $65 – this costs includes spay or neuter, vaccines, except rabies due to age requirements, and heartworm test.

Dog license: $15 – all dogs/puppies adopted must have a dog license.

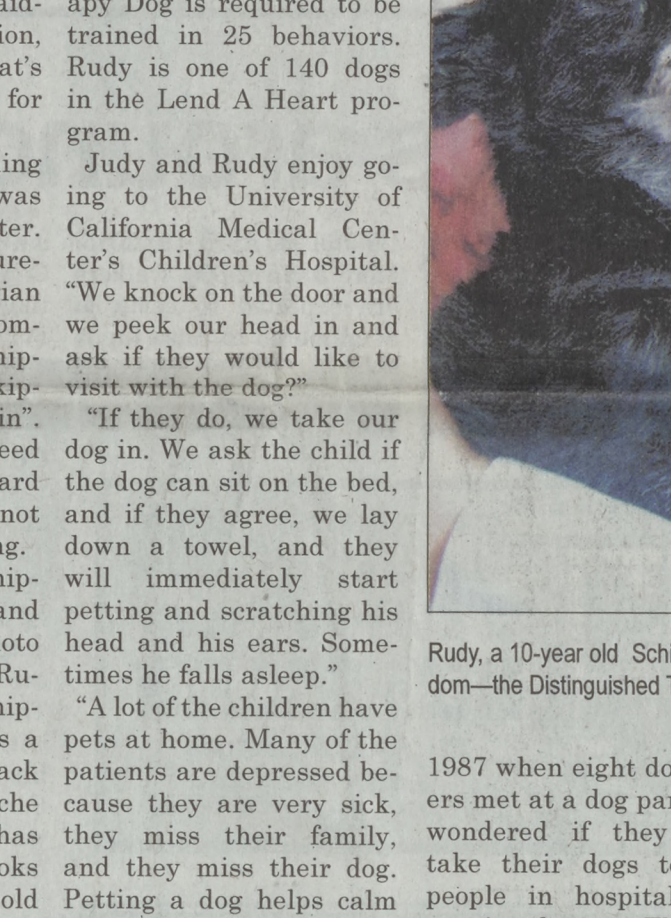

Rabies vaccine: $8 – all cats and dogs over 3 months will be vaccinated; those under 3 months cannot be, causing this fee to be separate from the adoption fee.

Feline Fridays: $5 – adult cats (6 months or older) are always in need of homes in shelters everywhere in Yolo County.

Seniors 4 Seniors: $5 – when a senior pet (over the age of 5) is paired with a senior adopter (over the age of 65), which is a win/win for everyone!

Adoption hours are Monday from 1-5 pm, Tuesday through Friday from 10 am to 5:30 pm, and Saturday from 10 am to 3:30 pm, with the office being closed between 1-2 pm for lunch.

The Yolo Country Animal Services is located at 140-C Tony Diaz Drive, Woodland, CA 95775, with the entrance off Gibson Road, west of County Road 102. The Animal Shelter welcomes donations to help fund the continuing effort to reduce adoption costs and checks can be mailed to the above address.

Cowboy, is available for adoption at the YCSPCA.

Other ways you can help lost or homeless pets awaiting their owners or new home are to donate towels or small acrylic blankets, liquid laundry detergent, cat and dog toys, Kongs and treats. You can also look on Amazon for the "Yolo County Shelter Wish List". You can volunteer in many different ways that make a difference, and for more information, go to yolocountysheriff.com.

Shopping Cart Retrieval Service

By Greg Brown

Sometimes I drive down the road and notice an abandoned shopping cart. What happens to it once somebody removes it from the store?

Who you gonna call? David Fisher's Cart Retrieval Service, of course.

I actually stumbled upon David while he was returning abandoned shopping carts to Vic's IGA from parts unknown.

It all started back in the 90s when David worked for a grocery store in north Sacramento. He picked up the carts for the store. One day he was running some errands out in North Highlands and he saw a recycling center that had numerous abandoned shopping carts. He stopped by to see if any of them belonged to the store he worked at.

There were quite a few that belonged to the 98 Cent Store. Then a light went off in his head.

David decided to talk to Gary Cino, the owner of the 98 Cent Clearance Centers, and asked if he was interested in having him pick them up and return them to the stores.

Cino agreed and offered a dollar a cart.

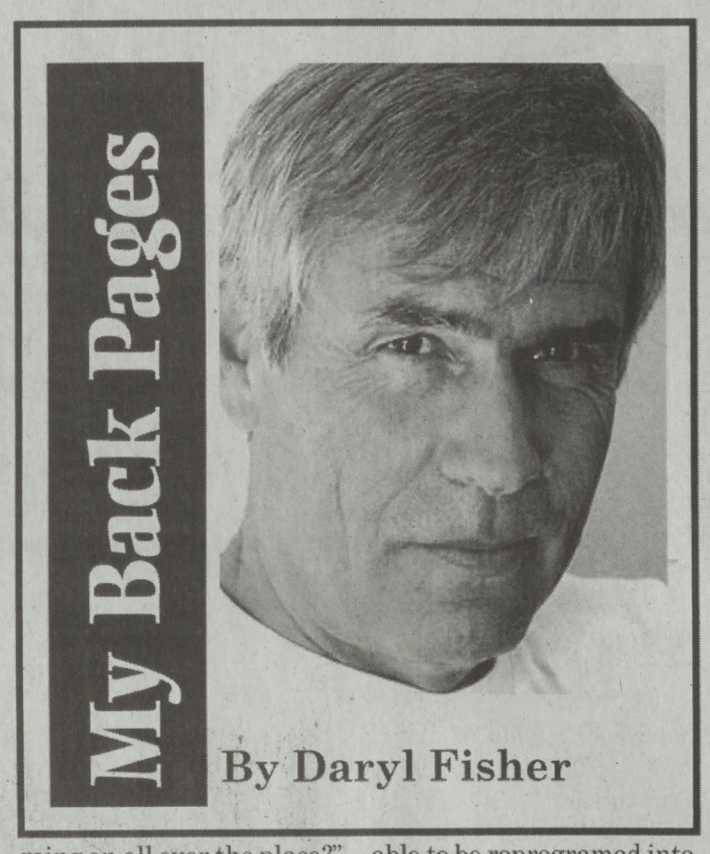

April 1 of 1998 David got his business license and made it legal. He's been returning shopping carts to their original owners ever since.

David, who is a South Land Park resident, usually gets between 50 to 100 carts a day. He also covers the Woodland and Davis area, too.

"I just put 'em in there and strap 'em down," he said.

He's also helping out the community. He gets calls and texts about shopping carts abandoned on the side of the road, down an embankment, or abandoned in an apartment complex. Several neighborhood associations have put his contact information in their newsletters.

Are promiscuous males bad mice or lousy rats?

I have a friend (I'll call her Jane) who I have known for ages and she is just about the brightest woman I have ever met. Not only does she teach and write and travel all over the place, but she also finds time to read a dozen or so books each month and there's hardly a subject she doesn't know something about. She is a walking encyclopedia on such topics as which museum has the best paintings, what exactly happened to the population of Europe during the Black Death, and what life was really like for slaves during the time of our Founding Fathers. She also has a passion for liberal politics and her car is always plastered with provocative bumper stickers, including a very old one she refuses to take off that reads, "Re-defeat Bush." In other words, she is a very interesting person to have a conversation with and one of those people who do not suffer fools gladly.

Jane also knows most everything there is to know about the history of the women's movement (especially in the United States) and is not at all uncomfortable with the label of being called a feminist. And, as I have learned over the years, she is not all that impressed with men in general, and married men in particular, having once passed along to me this little Katherine Hepburn quote: "If you want all men to stop admiring you just so one can ignore you and constantly criticize you, then get married."

So, knowing of Jane's somewhat less-than-lofty opinion of men, when I come across something that just might jerk her chain a little on the subject, I can't help giving her a call, which I did last week, and our conversation went a little something like this:

"Hey, Jane, how are you?"

"Well, considering the fact that the world looks like it is going into the toilet, I'm okay I guess."

"I assume you're talking about all the wars that are going on all over the place?"

"You men just have to start yourselves up another war every few years, don't you?"

"I'm afraid that's pretty much the way it's been down through the centuries," I admitted.

"Anyway, what are you up to, and why the phone call?"

"Well," I said, "I just wanted to pass along something I ran across in a Los Angeles Times article."

"About what?"

"About this new scientific study that's out on how promiscuous males might be able to be reprogramed into becoming monogamous. The title of the article is 'Gene study tames males' roving eye in rodents'."

When Jane had stopped laughing, she said, "So, they've gone and figured out how to keep married guys at home, have they? I don't believe a word of it, but do tell me more."

"Well," I said, "the article says that scientists working with voles...."

"Now what in the world is a vole?" she interrupted me.

"I think it is like a mouse, only bigger."

"Okay, go on."

"Well," I continued, "these scientists say that just by introducing a single gene in a vole brain they can get them to hang around the family more and even cozy up with their female partners after sex."

"Wow," said Jane, laughing again, "now that would definitely be a scientific breakthrough, if we could actually get most men to want to hang around with their partners after the sex act is over. It's been my experience that most of you guys already have a detailed plan for escaping before you even stroll into the bedroom."

"According to this article," I said, "there are two kinds of voles, prairie voles, which pair up like happily married humans with the male inevitably returning to his nest and mate, and meadow voles, which spend most of their time prowling around for any available female they can find."

"There's nothing new in that," said Jane. "That's probably true of a lot of animals."

"I know," I said, "but apparently prairie voles have a brain receptor for a hormone that the meadow voles don't have and all the scientists had to do was inject a gene to correct that and it made the promiscuous voles behave more like the loyal ones."

"Very interesting," admitted Jane.

"Here," I said, "let me read you some of the results of the study; 'Each male was placed in his own plexiglass complex. Leashed in one room was the original partner. Down the hall was another female primed for mating. The eleven genetically altered voles overwhelmingly stuck to their first partner. The couples mated. Then they nestled together and even exchanged licks'."

"Kind of romantic in its own way, isn't it?"

"I just thought you would be interested."

"So, just what are trying to tell me here, Daryl?"

"Just that the day may come when scientists will discover that the only difference between promiscuous men and loyal-to-their-mate men is that their brain chemistry is different. So it could be that we guys aren't so bad after all and that some of us just have a defective gene."

"And you discerned all of that from this one little study about eleven voles?" asked Jane, laughing again.

"What's so funny?"

"Just that I think there's a really big difference between the behavior of mice and you great big human male rats!"

Letters to the Editor

We are not sardines

Some weeks ago the news about the expansion of the Los Rios College in West Sacramento was published. Yes, we are proud to have been able to consolidate the previous classrooms around town into a nice new building across the street from City Hall and the neighbor of the Community Center.

Now they are planning their Phase 2 expansion of the college. When all this was in planning and the decision making process was happening, I can't remember of any mention of Phase 2 or Phase 3. Was it an "in-house" plan only, a need to know? Those of us involved in the interest of our community constantly reminded the City and others involved in the decision making process that it would be a tight squeeze, and would there be sufficient parking for students and Community Center visitors.

Has the City and College District thought about an off-campus site down the street where there is space to expand generously for their 2nd and 3rd phases? How about the 1700 block on West Capitol Avenue? That area has been waiting for an inspiring builder and what better use than classrooms for our young people. Who knows, later you may want a Phase 4 and you would have the luxury of more space if needed.

Your Phase 2 between Carol's restaurant and the current college will cover a portion of the current parking area and the one beautiful little green spot downtown that even resembles a park. Phase 3, between the library and the college building (south) will cover the northern parking area south of the college.

So folks, in a few years, if you want to go to the Community Center, the college, or library, there may not be a place to park your car.

It is time for the City to start thinking outside of the Triangle. Don't stuff us all into one place. We are not sardines.

LULAC news

LULAC, the League of United Latin American Citizens is an 85 year old civil rights organization. Yolo County Progressive Council #3204 has been representing the rights of citizens in West Sacramento mainly in the northern part. In 2014 LULAC listened to the parent's complaints about the restrooms in Bryte Park being dilapidated. LULAC set about documenting the needed repairs to the Bryte Park restrooms. Figuring that pictures tell more than a thousand words, our council members took photos and placed them on display next to pictures of restrooms in parks located in Southport. The comparison was startling. We then took this display to West Sacramento Parks and Recreation meetings and now the City of West Sacramento is repairing the restrooms to be open later this month.

LULAC will be presenting its Cezar Chavez Award to Walk Disney Corporation and KaBoom for their generous donation of playground equipment and community service for the children of Broderick and Bryte.

May 31, 2015 is the scheduled one day installation at Bryte Park. We plan to present this award after the ribbon cutting ceremony at approximately 3:30 pm. Mickey Mouse will be attending so we are looking forward to having the West Sacramento community come and show its support.

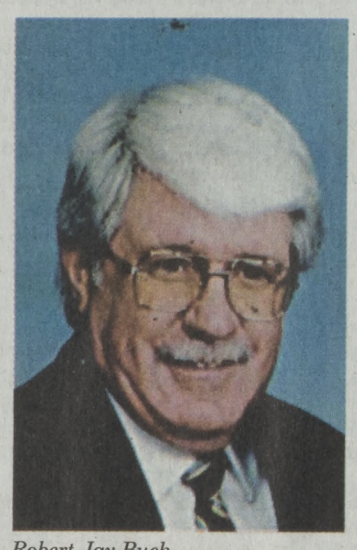

KaBoom, a non-profit corporation, has partnered with Disney to build a 9,000 square foot playground for Bryte Park. Disney is contributing $180,000 towards the project to be matched by the City of West Sacramento. For further information regarding volunteering for this one day build please contact Sharl Castorena, president of LULAC at 372-922 or email sharlcastorena@sbcglobal.net.

Capital Contemporary Chamber Orchestra to perform reunion concert April 11

Event will include music, dancing, tribute to Matisse

By LANCE ARMSTRONG

A performance with a diverse, innovative approach will be presented in Sacramento on Saturday, April 11 at 7:30 p.m. The event will be a blending of music, visual arts and modern dance.

On that evening, the Capital Contemporary Chamber Orchestra – formerly the Gold Country Chamber Orchestra – will bring musical masterpieces to life through its reunion concert, entitled, "Music, Movement and Matisse."

Attendees of this performance will hear string pieces by Richard Strauss and Felix Mendelssohn. And directing the orchestral performance will be the Copenhagen, Denmark-born, midtown Sacramento resident Henrik Jul Hansen, whose musical resume includes his U.S. debut with a 94-piece orchestra at Carnegie Hall in October 1989.

Many people are familiar with Hansen for his various other musical endeavors, which have included serving as conductor of the Sacramento Ballet and leading the Merced Symphony and the aforementioned Gold Country Chamber Orchestra.

This month's featured performance, which will be held at the Contemporary Dance Conservatory at 213 26th St., also highlights the talents of the jazz-based ensemble, Riverrun, and the Sacramento Contemporary Dance Company.

In speaking about the innovative approach to the upcoming performance, Hansen said, "It's very hard to do concerts anymore the way you used to. You used to just come in, rehearse an orchestra, and then have a concert and put it on. But times have changed. If you do concerts the way it was, it's often considered boring. People today, especially younger people, who are used to so much entertainment, you need something more than just coming in and listening to a concert. So, I've been thinking about how to expand the concept of what it can be, and so we are inviting some visual artists that are coming in.

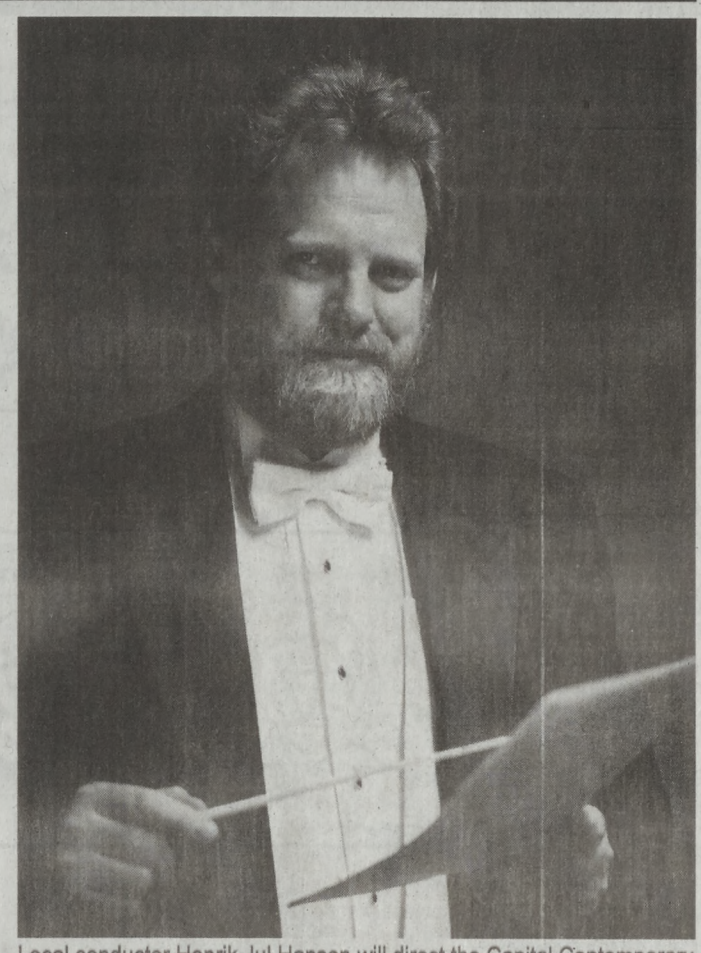

"It's partly a tribute to (the famous French artist Henri-Émile-Benoît) Matisse, who did some cutouts, which are absolutely, totally wonderful. (Those cutouts, which were recently exhibited in New York and London, are) very pure, very ingenious the way he put very simple things together, but created some lines that I think are very telling, very inspiring. So, I have put out the word (to) visual artists in the neighborhood that would be interested in exhibiting at this concert, and have something to do with movement and color, and dance and music.

So, when people come in, they would come in the front hall and they would feel these wonderful arts that are there. (It is) sort of like being bombarded by all these colors and motif and stuff, and sort of like getting into the mood of things. And then we have teamed up with a dance company, which is called the Contemporary Dance Conservatory. And the Riverrun jazz quartet (is directed by) Dyne Eifertsen, who teaches out of American River College. And the director of the dance company is Lena Logan."

> "It's partly a tribute to (the famous French artist Henri-Émile-Benoît) Matisse, who did some cutouts, which are absolutely, totally wonderful."

Following the performance, ticketholders will have the opportunity to attend a reception, where they can speak to the dancers, visual artists and the musicians, and view the artwork again.

Admission to the April 11 performance is $20/general in advance, and $25/general, $20/seniors and $10/students (19 years old or older) at the door. Students 18 years old or younger will be admitted for free.

Local conductor Henrik Jul Hansen will direct the Capital Contemporary Chamber Orchestra in an innovative, Matisse-themed reunion concert in Sacramento on April 11.

It shall be mandatory for the Contractor and any subcontractor under him to pay not less than the said prevailing wage rates to laborers and workmen employed by them in the execution of the Contract.

Bonds

The successful bidder will be required to furnish, prior to the performance of any work hereunder, a payment bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (1 00%) of the Contract price, and a faithful performance bond in an amount equal to one hundred percent (1 00%) of the Contract price by an "admitted surety insurer" licensed by the Insurance Commissioner.

Accrued interest and additional advances, if any, will increase this figure prior to sale. It is possible that at the time of sale the opening bid may be less than the total indebtedness due. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF DON LEE JENSEN
CASE NUMBER PB15-048

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of DON LEE JENSEN:

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Matthew Jensen in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The Petition for Probate requests that Matthew Jensen be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: April 23, 2015, at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 2, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court Street, Woodland CA 95695.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.
